This Copyright Statement is a public notice. It is not a consumer contract. Use of the Website is governed by our Website Terms of Use. Paid services are governed by the Master Services Agreement, the relevant service schedule or statement of work, and, where we process personal data on a client's behalf, the Data Processing Agreement.

1. Status of this Notice

This is the Copyright Statement referred to in section 3 of our Website Terms of Use. It tells you what intellectual property appears on the public websites of Vista Web Ltd ("Vista Web", "we", "us", "our"), who owns it, and what you may reasonably do with it.

The Website is an information and enquiry channel for businesses. It is not a consumer site and is not intended for personal or household use. By using the Website you represent that you do so in the course of a business, trade or profession.

Nothing in this notice transfers ownership of any intellectual property. Nothing in it is an offer capable of acceptance, professional advice, or a licence beyond the limited permission in section 5. Rights that UK law does not allow us to exclude or restrict remain unaffected.

2. The Website

This notice applies to the public websites at vistaweb.ltd and vistawebdesigns.co.uk (together, the "Website"), including the pages that describe our services and the portfolio section titled "Our Work" (or any successor name).

It does not apply to a Client's own live website, mailbox, domain or hosted environment, even where we designed, built or manage that property under a contract. Ownership of work we produce for a Client is dealt with in the Master Services Agreement and the relevant schedule, not here.

3. What We Own

Except for the third-party and Client material identified in this notice, the Website and its contents are owned by Vista Web Ltd or used by us under licence. That includes:

- original text, structure, layout, design and look-and-feel of the Website;
- photographs, graphics, diagrams and illustrations we created;
- source code, markup and styling we wrote for the Website;
- our case-study narrative, service descriptions and other copy we authored;
- the compilation and arrangement of the Website as a whole; and
- the Vista Web name, the device mark used on the Website, and associated get-up.

Those items are protected by copyright, unregistered design right, passing-off and trade-mark law as they apply in England and Wales, and by equivalent rights elsewhere. Access to the Website does not give you any ownership of them.

© 2026 Vista Web Ltd. All rights reserved in the material described in this section.

4. What We Do Not Claim

We do not claim copyright or other ownership in the following, even where they appear on the Website next to our own material:

- Client content displayed in the Our Work / portfolio section, including screenshots, extracts of a Client site, Client copy, photographs a Client supplied, and Client names, logos and trade marks (section 6);
- Lucide icons (section 7);
- Font Awesome icons (section 8);
- open-licensed typefaces, including families from the Google Fonts collection if and when we use them (section 9); and
- third-party photographs or illustrations published under a free-use or stock licence, if and when we add them (for example on a blog) (section 10).

Those exceptions are the only third-party content we intend to publish on the Website. If something else appears, it is an error or a later addition and will be identified or removed when we become aware of it.

5. Limited Permission to Use the Website

You may view the Website, and download or print pages, only so far as is reasonably necessary to learn about our business or to make a business enquiry. Search engines may index publicly available pages in the ordinary way.

You may not, without our prior written consent:

- copy, adapt, scrape, republish or commercially exploit our Content, other than the limited viewing right above;
- use our name, device or get-up in a way that suggests a partnership, endorsement or employment that does not exist;
- remove or obscure a copyright, trade-mark or attribution notice; or
- treat a portfolio piece as a template you are free to copy.

If you want to use any of our Content beyond that limited right, write to contact@vistaweb.ltd and say what you want to do. We will consider a request on its merits. We are not obliged to agree.

6. Client Content in Our Work

The Our Work section may show work we designed, built or otherwise produced for a named business customer ("Client"). A typical piece includes some combination of:

- a screenshot or extract of the Client's site or brand;
- the Client's name, logo or trade mark; and

- copy or photography the Client supplied, or that remains the Client's after the engagement.

That material remains the Client's (or their licensors'). We display it only because the Client has allowed us to do so — usually under the Master Services Agreement and the website design and build statement of work, or a separate written permission. Display on the Website is not an assignment to us, and it is not a licence to you.

You acquire no right in the Client's site, brand, product or copy by viewing the portfolio. You must not copy a Client's mark, layout or content from Our Work, and you must not represent that the Client endorses you or us beyond the fact that the piece of work exists.

Where we wrote the surrounding case-study narrative, that narrative is ours. Where a screenshot necessarily reproduces the Client's page, the underlying page remains the Client's.

If you are a Client and you want a piece removed or anonymised, write to contact@vistaweb.ltd. We will take the request seriously and will remove or alter the piece within a reasonable time, unless we have a continuing contractual right to display it and it remains fair to do so. If you are a third party who believes a portfolio piece infringes your rights, use section 12.

7. Lucide Icons

The Website uses icons from the Lucide set. Those icons are not our work. We use them under the Lucide licence. Lucide does not require a visible credit on every page. This section, and Appendix B, are the notice that accompanies our copies.

Lucide is published under the ISC Licence. Copyright in Lucide is held by Lucide Icons and Contributors. Some Lucide icons are derived from the Feather project and remain subject to the MIT Licence, Copyright (c) 2013–present Cole Bemis. The current Lucide licence page is at lucide.dev/license.

You may use Lucide icons under their own licence. You may not treat our layout, or the way we have combined an icon with our copy, as something Lucide has licensed to you.

8. Font Awesome Icons

The Website also uses some icons from Font Awesome Free, published by Fonticons, Inc. Those icons are not our work.

Font Awesome Free is licensed in three parts. Icons packaged as SVG or JavaScript are under the Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 International licence (CC BY 4.0). Icons packaged as web or desktop font files are under the SIL Open Font License 1.1, with the Reserved Font Name "Font Awesome". Accompanying code is under the MIT Licence.

Those licences require attribution. Fonticons say that the comments embedded in the downloaded files are sufficient if the files are used in the ordinary way and those comments are not stripped out. We do not remove those comments. This section, and Appendix C, are the visitor-facing attribution. The current Font Awesome Free licence page is at fontawesome.com/license/free.

Brand icons in the Font Awesome set are trade marks of their respective owners. If a brand icon appears on the Website, it is used only to refer to that brand. We do not use the words "Font Awesome" as the name of our business or of the Website, and we do not claim the Font Awesome typeface design.

This notice assumes the Free set. If a Pro or other paid Font Awesome icon is used, it is used under Fonticons' commercial terms for that product, not under CC BY 4.0, and it remains Fonticons' work.

You may use Font Awesome icons under their own licence. You may not treat our layout, or the way we have combined an icon with our copy, as something Fonticons has licensed to you.

9. Typefaces, including Google Fonts

The Website may use freely licensed typefaces, including families distributed through the Google Fonts collection. We do not claim to have designed those typefaces. The font software remains the property of its authors and is used under the licence published with that family — typically the SIL Open Font License 1.1 and, for a smaller number of families, the Apache License 2.0.

Ordinary use of an OFL or Apache typeface on a website does not require a visible credit in the page footer. If we self-host a family, we keep the licence and copyright files with the font files. We will not sell a font file as a stand-alone product, and we will not rename a modified family that carries a Reserved Font Name.

If we later want a visitor to know which family is on the page, we will name it in an update to this section. Until then, this paragraph is the record that any Google Fonts family on the Website is used under its published open licence and is not Vista Web type.

10. Blog and Other Third-party Images

We do not currently publish third-party stock photographs or other “free-use” images on the Website. If we later do so — for example on a blog — we will only use material we have a right to use for a commercial B2B site. That means public-domain material, a Creative Commons licence that allows commercial use, a paid stock licence, or material we have commissioned.

We will not claim copyright in that third-party image. We will put a short credit and licence note next to the image, or we will list it in an update to this notice. We will not use a licence that forbids commercial use, or that requires us to offer the Website itself under a copyleft term.

11. Linking to the Website

You may link to a public page of the Website if the link is not misleading and does not frame or embed the page so as to suggest that we endorse you or that the page is yours. We may ask you to remove a link that, in our reasonable opinion, damages our reputation or misrepresents the relationship. That request is not a restriction on fair reporting.

12. Notice of Claimed Infringement

If you believe that material on the Website infringes copyright or another intellectual property right that you own or are authorised to enforce, write to contact@vistaweb.ltd with:

- our name, business name and contact details;
- the URL of the material and a description of the right you say is infringed;
- the basis on which you are entitled to complain; and
- what you want us to do.

We will consider a complete notice within a reasonable time. We may remove or disable the material while we look at it. Removal is not an admission. We may restore the material if the complaint is not made out, or if the person who put the material there shows a proper basis for keeping it. This is a practical notice procedure under the law of England and Wales. It is not a United States DMCA counter-notice scheme. A Client who wants a portfolio piece taken down should use section 6. That is usually faster than an infringement notice, because the question is permission, not subsistence of copyright.

13. Relationship with Other Documents

This notice sits with the Website Terms of Use. If there is a conflict about use of the public Website, the Terms of Use prevail on contract terms; this notice prevails on the factual identification of what we own and what we do not claim.

Ownership of work we produce for a Client, and any right we have to show that work in Our Work, is governed by the Master Services Agreement and the relevant schedule (currently the website design and build statement of work, and any hosting schedule that follows). Those contracts are between us and that Client. They do not give a Website visitor any right in the Client's material.

Personal data on the Website is described in the Privacy Policy, not here.

14. Changes

We may update this notice where it is reasonable to do so, including to record a new typeface, a blog image source, a change of icon set, or a change in the portfolio. The current version will be published on the Website with a revised "Last Updated" date. Continued use of the Website after publication is the basis on which the updated notice applies to you as a visitor.

15. Governing Law and Jurisdiction

This notice is issued by a company registered in England and Wales. It is intended to be read with our Website Terms of Use.

The Website Terms of Use, and any dispute or claim (including non-contractual disputes or claims) arising out of or in connection with the Website or this notice, are governed by the law of England and Wales. The courts of England and Wales have exclusive jurisdiction to settle any such dispute or claim. You and we submit to that jurisdiction.

Nothing in this notice is intended to confer a right on a consumer, or on a person who is not a party to a contract with us, except so far as a statute gives that person a right that cannot be excluded.

16. Contact

Questions about this notice, a request to use our Content, a Client request to alter a portfolio piece, or a notice under section 12, should be sent to:

- Email: contact@vistaweb.ltd
- Post: Vista Web Ltd, 3 Castlegate, Grantham, Lincolnshire, NG31 6SF
- Company number: 15191885
- Website: vistaweb.ltd or vistawebdesigns.co.uk

Appendix A – Lucide Licence Text

The following text is reproduced so that the Lucide ISC notice, and the Feather MIT notice for derived icons, appear with our copies. The authoritative current text is the licence Lucide publishes at lucide.dev/license.

ISC Licence (Lucide)

Copyright (c) 2026 Lucide Icons and Contributors.

Permission to use, copy, modify, and/or distribute this software for any purpose with or without fee is hereby granted, provided that the above copyright notice and this permission notice appear in all copies.
